More every day, we must be looking out for actions we can take. Many are detailed in this issue. Assess your gifts - speaking, writing, organizing, growing, protecting, nurturing, teaching, leading - and put those gifts to work NOW. Don't discount your abilities, whatever they are. Taking action will prevent you sinking into despondency. Prayer is assumed, but it's not a substitute for action. If you saw a child being kidnapped, would you stand aside and offer up a Rosary, or would you spring into action while begging God to help? Your gifts are needed.

Prepare For a Great Blessing

When I was in my 30's I sensed my angel before me. "Prepare for a great blessing," he seemed to tell me. Well, who would want to argue with that? Shortly after, great tumult and disaster came upon me. A year or two later he seemed to come to me again and direct me to go look in my mailbox on a Sunday morning. I did. In the box was a note which simply said, "Prepare for a great blessing." More wary now, I was still largely enthused, figuring this would be a chance for him to make up for the last time. Instead, again with the tumult and disaster. A third time I sensed him before me, solemnly instructing me to prepare for a great blessing. This time I told him I was feeling pretty blessed already and thought it only fair for someone else to share in the blessings. He laughed and said, "I was wondering when you would catch on."

Since that third time, I have never sensed him saying those words to me again. But I have also never since failed to see the blessing in serious adversity - and that is, itself, a blessing.

Many of you have spoken to me about your fears for your loved ones and family who have rejected the faith and are living lives of indifference or, even, hedonism. I have heard the sorrow in so many voices. Some sorrow is simply because their children have chosen a different path than they have. While understandable, this is largely selfish and self-referential, rather than truly loving. The larger sorrow is because the grievors have recognized that those loved ones who have fallen are living lives of misery, emptiness and desperation. The grievors want the good for those they love.

I have struggled with this in my own life. My dear daughter has struggled with substance abuse since she was 12, and it has mostly been a losing battle. Around a year ago, she went to jail and was forced into a mandatory rehab program. It was, in fact, an answer to a prayer. My hopes were modest, simply that if she were in jail, she would have a much harder time getting the substances that were killing her and robbing her life of meaning. And so long as you live, the possibility of redemption remains. Our first conversation after she was jailed was very ugly. It ended with me screaming at her and hanging up on her. She ventured to call me back two weeks later and we laid out some ground rules for regular communication and support. (Well, actually, I laid out some ground rules).

Mirabile dictu! This time it seemed to be taking. My son has often chided me that I never allow myself to get played by anyone - except my daughter...and I have let myself get played by her repeatedly. On the other hand, when I was starting to lose hope a few years back, my son was even more alarmed, telling me with deep worry that if there was to be a chance for reclamation someone had to keep the door open - and that if I shut it entirely there would be no one there to keep hope alive.

My daughter left jail on December 8th of last year. Having faced more than a few adversities, she has not wavered in her sobriety. Her attitude is entirely different this time. She was always quick-witted and very literate when herself, a quality which she can't mimic when she just "talks sober." At one point she told me that I have been her rock and that she wants to be a rock for others like I have been for her. I drily responded that, "It's hard to be a rock." To my delight, she immediately caught the pun and howled with laughter.

Her new boyfriend is a very committed Protestant Christian. After ascertaining that there is no whiff of anti-Catholic bigotry in him, I am very pleased. For Easter, she went to morning service, afternoon service and pot luck, and evening Bible Study. I laughed and told her that if she had on her Bingo card the unlikely probability that this Easter Sunday she would spend about three times as long at Church as I would, she was a winner.

There have been more than a few false starts, but this time I believe with my whole heart. Her whole attitude is different. We laugh and joke together and she catches the sly and subtle puns with which I routinely lace my conversations for my own amusement. When she told me of getting her 10-month sobriety pin I laughed and told her that was the longest she has been sober since she was 12. She laughed and said, "I know." Now, she faces the new reality that a few other members of the family have sensed her new steadiness and have been running their problems by her. I noted what a good, if occasionally difficult, sign that was. We have talked about how to deal with it – and she has laughingly agreed that it is, indeed, hard being a rock.

When God is going to turn your life around, the first thing He usually does is to crush the old delusions and illusions you have relied upon. It feels like disaster. But He is clearing the ground so that, if you are willing, you may build anew with Him as your foundation. Those of you who worry and grieve over loved ones living lives of misery and emptiness should be prepared to see the dysfunctions in their lives come to a head in disaster. It is not the end but, in most cases, the answer to your prayers. It is the logical end of the old dysfunction – and an opportunity to build anew under God. If you lay a firm and loving foundation, what begins in seeming disaster will come to be seen as the great blessing that was the turning point of many lives. The whole world now groans as it prepares for a great blessing. May we be willing.

Actions To Take Now

USE CASH

EVERY DAY this becomes more critical. The CBDC, unappealingly named FedNow, is rolling out in July. It will not be universal at first, but if it rolls out to great usage, we are in very serious trouble. Enough people have to be using cash by then to make it unprofitable for merchants to abandon cash transactions.

May I use some Catholic guilt on you? Question yourself every time you use a credit card! We have only a few months to put a stick in the gears of this oncoming juggernaut. It's so easy to do. It takes about a week to get used to going to the bank IN PERSON, looking a teller in the face, being friendly and pleasant, and then using cash for your expenses that week.

If all your purchases become digital, the government will have records of you owning things like water purifiers, larger-than-ordinary stocks of food, generators, and other things that the government would like to relieve you of. Most frighteningly, the government, through the "central banks" will be able to shut off the purchasing power of people who don't support the narrative like good little boys and girls. This isn't a conspiracy theory; FedNow is coming. Spring planting, end of the school year, family vacations, and then FedNow, just before the July 4th holiday.

DO NOT LET THIS HAPPEN. It's under our control now, but the window is closing. We can't fail on something so simple.

- Use cash for everything
- Ask your bank if they are enrolling in FEDNOW.
- If they are, remove your funds, and make sure they know why.

MAP YOUR NEIGHBORHOOD

The national Sustainability team has issued the challenge for us to "map our neighborhood." There is a whole program sponsored by Emergency Management in Washington to help you do everything to make your neighborhood ready for anything. They have video and printed resources to help.

<https://mil.wa.gov/map-your-neighborhood>

PUBLIC ROSARY

A partial indulgence is granted every time we say the rosary. When we pray in a group in public, graces multiply. Get one or two friends and start now. Wednesday evenings are a common time for public rosaries on city squares, pedestrian bridges, etc.

<https://truthforsouls.com/2023/02/27/prayer-on-the-square-one-year-anniversary/>

ADORE JESUS

The CORAC Sustainability team has challenged us to give Jesus one hour a day in adoration. If you can't get to an Eucharistic chapel, you can go to adoration online in Niepokalanow, Poland at the chapel originally built by St. Maximilian Kolbe.

PRINT RESOURCES

Identify critical information you'd want to have in a crisis, and PRINT IT OUT. Gather a library of print books on such subjects as gardening, sanitation, foraging, hunting and fishing, and home remedies.

News

WHY DID WE SEE IT AND OTHERS DIDN'T?

Why did some people see the lies for lies from the beginning, while others are still wearing masks and getting harmful booster shots? Last week, outside the local Planned Parenthood, I noticed that every single person who drove up was wearing a mask in their car. What is it about that population, the PP-patronizing, that makes them cling to obvious lies?

Here's what I have been able to identify as factors for immunity, after closely observing for three years.

- Faith in God and religious practice. If you're a regular church-goer with a lively relationship with Christ, your priorities are different from the worldly. You already know that Satan lies, and dresses up his lies in pomp. You were already looking for salvation from something other than government officialdom.
- Disenfranchised in some way. If you were a conservative, by 2020 you'd already experienced the loss of influence in the public square. Conservatives had long been vilified under Clinton and Obama, and in every forum of consequence, like higher education, mass media and politics. You already knew that your interests were not being represented by the "Bigs" of the world.
- No TV. If you didn't watch TV, you were way ahead of the curve because TV news is where most of the brainwashing took place, especially with staged videos of people dropping in the streets, fighting for breath, and being buried by hazmat teams. For those of us who only heard about it, but never saw it, the absence of those images in our subconscious meant our internal processes were not sabotaged by the fear campaign.
- Self-sustaining. Clearly those who were dependent on public assistance were more conditioned to believe that the government had their best interests at heart.
- Education. This one is spotty because there were plenty of well-educated people at the front of the line for the shots, but a study of "vaccine hesitancy" showed that the PhD-level demographic was the least vaccinated. So people who knew how to research things for themselves were advantaged, but in no way did it require a PhD to see that the shot had no long-term safety data.
- A supportive community. If everyone around you was on the vaxx bandwagon, you likely began to doubt yourself even though the narrative was suspicious. Those with a rational, measuring, faithful group of friends were affirmed in their thinking, and got new information from others who were not hypnotized. Charlie and CORAC played this role to the benefit of many people, even if it was online or virtual.

Knowing these factors, it is now our task to "spread" our immunity. Try to get your loved ones to watch less (or no) TV, invite them to church, make sure they feel part of a community. At this point, research and logic are probably not effective; anyone who could be convinced, has been. Maybe the rest have to be loved into awakening.

THE COVID "RELIGION"

Dr. Peter McCullough reflects on how people fell so hard for the covid narrative that it became their religion. Note below a banner hanging from a Methodist church in South Africa, dismissing Jesus Christ for propaganda purposes. Also note the Vatican City coin with a masked doctor and nurse injecting a masked young person. I am quite shocked by both these images. Those who planned and executed the false narrative took direct and specific aim at Christ, and the image of Christ in human persons. ## mRNA IN THE FOOD SUPPLY

I've read it now in multiple venues, across topical lines: vaccinated food is coming our way. Bear in mind that no one, at least no one outside the ruling elite, has any idea what mRNA does to the body, how long it lasts, whether it modifies DNA, how it affects reproduction, what autoimmune, cardiological, circulatory and neurological damage it may cause. mRNA can currently be inserted in food in the US without warning labels, though some states are beginning the fight to require labelling. I think small organic farmers are about to capsize with new business. See "Eat Better" item below.

Some references: <https://wholecows.com/american-farmers-to-begin-injecting-livestock-with-mrna-shots-this-month/> and <https://deeprootsathome.com/mrna-gene-therapy-is-coming-to-the-food-supply-this-month/> and <https://petermcculloughmd.substack.com/p/chinese-load-cows-milk-with-mrna> and <https://twitter.com/RWMaloneMD/status/1613260930854563840>

If you search "mRNA meat" you will get all sorts of denials from the usual suspects (USA Today, Politifact, the fact checkers) but that all feels uncomfortably familiar, sort of like "safe and effective." The extremely massive pushback against the Missouri law that would simply require labelling of "gene therapy" products proves there is reason for concern.

The National Cattlemen's Beef Association said on April 5 that there are no "currently licensed mRNA vaccines approved for use in the US for beef cattle." They did not say when "current" runs out, and I highly doubt they will put out a press release when it does. I'm not likely to let anyone get between me and a good sirloin, but this bears watching. We did not endure all the turmoil of the last two years, just to get inadvertently vaccinated by a hamburger.

Two very trustworthy sources, Naomi Wolf and attorney Tom Renz discuss vaccination by food here:

EAT BETTER

The CORAC Sustainable Living team has put together a list for healthy food sourcing:

- 1) Find a local CSA (Community-Supported Agriculture). CSAs are in every part of the country. Find one here: <https://www.localharvest.org/csa/>
- 2) Find local farms (or sell, if you're a producer) <https://farmmatch.com/search>
- 3) Find local farmers who ship product <https://www.eatwild.com/products/texas.html>
- 4) Order organic, non-GMO products from distribution site in Oregon. There are pickup sites all over the country, coordinated by volunteers and a searchable map to find one nearby. <https://www.azurestandard.com>
- 5) Order Pennsylvania Amish farm foods from Amos Miller by joining the private membership organization. Cost of membership is $35 paid once for a lifetime. The farm is in Bird-In-Hand, Pennsylvania <https://amosmillerorganicfarm.com>

APRIL FORAGING

There's so much to find in April, including chickweed, plantain, magnolia and cattails. Read about the dietary and medicinal effects available from many easily-found plants. I have been pulling up plantain as a useless weed, but now I realize that the leaves are edible and the seeds medicinal! In God's economy, everything has a place; it just needs discernment.

DRUG USE

The US consumes half of all prescription drugs in the world, despite being only 5% of the world's population. Does that make you rethink the medical model we've all grown up with? Healthy diet, exercise and prayer could prevent most of the conditions for which Americans consume all those drugs... and maybe deal a fatal blow to Big Pharma at the same time.

THE HEALTH PROFESSIONALS GOT AT LEAST ONE THING RIGHT

Exercise. It affects everything, from circulation to regularity, mood and mental clarity. It decreases the risk of almost every chronic disease. And like the sign says on my local trail, “You’re only one good workout from a great day!” Just a gentle walk is a great start, with the added benefit of meeting neighbors. Increase your exercise time by no more than 10% per week, but do increase it. Consider it your contribution to the defeat of Big Pharma’s plan for your life.

FLEE THE WHO

James Roguski is one of our foremost researchers and activists on the dangers and plans of the World Health Organization. Our own government has tried to cede our national sovereignty to the WHO in the event of another “pandemic.” The whole organization needs to be examined. Read James’ Top Ten Reasons to Exit the WHO” here:

<https://substack.com/notes/post/p-82232821>

ON TRANSGENDERISM

The absolute deluge of transgenderist propaganda in the last few months alone is staggering. It’s so broad and uniform, it’s hard to not think that there’s a campaign. Jennifer Bilek reports on the gender industry here: https://jbilek.substack.com/p/who-owns-big-pharma-and-the-billionaires?r=34r89&utm\_campaign=post&utm\_medium=email and here: <https://jbilek.substack.com/p/gender-identity-a-corporate-fiction>

Fr. Mike Schmitz elucidates a Catholic approach to transgenderism: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=vXIwtuk0Dz4>

MASKING MARBURG

The virus Marburg has cropped up now and again when the ruling medical class starts talking about the next “pandemic.” It truly is a concerning specter, widespread Marburg. Trusted doc Peter McCullough mentions two treatments with better possibilities than waiting around in masks for another harmful genetic experiment: our old friend hydroxychloroquine (HCQ) and favipiravir, an antiviral used mostly in Japan. Knowing that these alternative treatments exist for nearly anything gives me great hope and immunizes me against the fear porn. This short blurb comes from Dr. McCullough’s Substack, which I have found to be valuable on several subjects. Subscribe if you agree. https://petermcculloughmd.substack.com/p/countermeasures-for-marburg-virus?utm\_source=substack&utm\_medium=email

WE CAN STILL DIVERT DISASTER

Dr. Mike Yeadon: “Keep as far away from “healthcare” as you possibly can, say no to digital ID, no to 15-minute cities, no to Net Zero, no to Central Bank Digital Currencies, no to elimination of cash, no to “ze bugs” and no to a virtual existence. We can stop or divert this, but it’s not going to be easy. If you’re not actively working to influence others and preparing to exist, at least in part, outside the current technological system, then sorry, you’ve already accepted your fate.”

VAXX-INJURED

If you know someone injured by the shot, even if they can’t admit it to you, here are some resources to propose:

- Front-Line COVID Critical Care: they’ve been on the front lines from the beginning and have some of the best resources in the country. Find a provider who will take symptoms seriously and not dismiss genuine distress as “anxiety” or “imagination.” <https://covid19criticalcare.com/providers/> There are also protocols on this site that you can follow at home.
- React19: they have a symptom index, with descriptions that can help pinpoint issues, and a list of providers searchable by location (state) and specialty. <https://react19.org/start-here/>
- The Wellness Company, staffed by the likes of Dr. Peter McCullough and Dr. Harvey Risch. You can get an injury consult and treatment plan for $75, with a further discount if you are a member.

BRICS

If you haven't heard of BRICS yet, you soon will. It's the cooperative relations between Brazil, Russia, India, China and South Africa, in the face of malicious US foreign policy. More countries are joining BRICS, as it ascends on the world stage. The balance of world power has shifted, while Biden plays with the Easter bunny on the lawn of the White House.

BRICS now has a greater economic weight than the G7, the seven most industrialized countries on the planet: the United States, Japan, the UK, France, Germany, Italy and the European Union. BRICS are not only overtaking the G7 countries economically, but demographics are also in their favor, as the industrialized nations contracept themselves out of existence.

DON'T FORGET THE HONEY, HONEY

Honey has antimicrobial properties and can be an effective treatment for upper respiratory tract infections and persistent coughs. Many prescription antibiotics have become less effective through resistance, due to over-prescription. Honey, on the other hand, is cheap, widely available and pleasantly palatable. It scored higher than conventional care for symptom relief.

GET STARTED WITH COMMUNICATIONS

Communications is often the most popular topic at CORAC events. How do we reach our family and friends if normal communications are out? The CORAC national Comms team has come up with a Starter Guide for those of us who are wildly interested in comms, but clueless as to execution. <https://corac.co/2023/04/04/corac-communications-getting-started-guide/>

OFF-GRID IS FUN!

Learning to live more self-sufficiently should be fun! Here's a experiment, baking bread in an oven constructed of a cardboard box and aluminum foil. Kids are sure to enjoy this! <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=m8cVU0ciMnA>

RENEWAL OF THE MIND

In the age of Zoom and other virtual forums, we have access to speakers we might not otherwise get to hear, a way to engage our minds to reflect on our tumultuous times. I love St. Teresa Benedicta of the Cross, but I must admit her writing is dense, and I would be glad to have the edifying illumination of an expert.

“St. Edith Stein As Modern Witness”

Dr. Elizabeth Mitchell for The Catholic Thing. Five Wednesday evenings, beginning April 19. Classes will be recorded so you can watch on your own time if unable to make the live sessions at 7:00 Eastern (6 Central, 4 Pacific) Primary text: Edith Stein: The Life of a Philosopher and Carmelite, Teresa Renata Posselt. Class $75, book $16 or $9 on Kindle. Register here:

WHAT CAN I DO?

Watch one of these documentary “wake-up” films that won't appear on mainstream screens, then arrange to show it to a group. You could book your local library meeting room, a parish hall, or get a Protestant ally and use their church hall.

PUSH BACK AGAINST THE GLOBALIST AGENDA

This has been a worldwide campaign to mobilize citizens to protect their freedom. The chart below is a screenshot; visit the website to follow the live links: <https://globalwalkout.com> initiated by

Recap of the most important steps we've taken so far

Keep Cash Alive

Arrange enough cash to cover your living expenses week to week. Don't tap or swipe your debit card, credit card, or other digital cards for as long as possible
globalwalkout.com/step-19

Digital ID

It's time to educate people about the DIGITAL ID. This is one of our most important and effective campaigns.
globalwalkout.com/step-14

No Self-Checkouts or QR codes

Never use a self-checkout or order food using a QR code unless absolutely necessary. If the cashier or waiter seems confused, use it as an opportunity to tell them about the Global Walkout.
globalwalkout.com/step-7

Support Smaller Banks

Move as many accounts as you can to a union or local bank. If you run a business, move your business accounts and start paying wages from there. Not everyone can do this one, of course.
globalwalkout.com/step-4

Reignite Farming

Locate and support family-run grocery stores and markets as much as possible. Try to purchase locally grown products to support the farming and market communities in your area.
globalwalkout.com/step-2

GLOBAL WALK OUT

Curriculum Awareness

Book an appointment with the teacher or principal, and ask them which books they are reading this year. Also, ask about the sexual education content they teach.
globalwalkout.com/step-12

Ditch Loyalty Cards

Protect your privacy and spending habits from prying eyes. Stop using loyalty, reward or membership cards with big stores. Use an alias if you really need that membership.
globalwalkout.com/step-17

Withdraw some cash

If you have savings in the bank, consider withdrawing a decent amount of cash and putting it somewhere safe or investing it in something tangible.
globalwalkout.com/step-13

Install a Landline Phone

Let's remove our dependency on mobile phones. Installing a landline is cheap and reliable without electricity.

Conscious buying

Before spending money, consider...WHERE is it going? Who is it going to?
