Why It Matters

We're gathering in the spirit of good will, actively connecting communities, heartening the faithful, collaborating to publicly stand for our core values of faith, family and freedom, and prudently preparing to help those in need in these uncertain times.

From sideline support, to participating in local events, joining a team, sharing your knowledge, and more, there are many ways you can stand with us for what matters most and make a real difference. It simply begins with the next right step. Join us!

Thirteen years ago, Charlie Johnston first publicly spoke of a coming great storm that would engulf the globe. He described it as a "global civil war fought on cultural lines." Many, both inside and outside the Church dismissed him as an alarmist. Some claimed he was sparking panic about the end of all things - when he specifically and adamantly insisted that this was NOT the end, but the beginning of the rewal of the faith and face of the earth.

Now, as we are so far into that storm that all see it he once again emphasizes that things are not as they appear to be. While many are panicking, fearing the arrival of the Anti-Christ or the end of all things, Charlie says that the Triumph of the Immaculate Heart is on the horizon. But again he emphasizes that what we do and how we behave will have a big impact. It will determine whether the Triumph is just a few years away...or several decades away.

He will talk about how to see and clearly interpret current events. Like the end of a thriller novel, 80% of the action comes in the last 15% of the book. That does not mean things are coming apart...but that they are resolving into something new.

Ave Maria, Stella Maris!
